To Whom It May Concern:

Reference for Haag Müller, Inc.

I have professionally known the principals and staff of Haag Müller, Inc. for the past four years. In that time, I have been given the opportunity to both work on projects, and to review their designs.

They have been involved in a number of projects in downtown Port Washington. Their designs have been sensitive to the historic character of the existing buildings but also have been practical and functional for their clients.

One recent major redevelopment project in the downtown area is Harbor Square. Haag Müller was the project architect and their design of this mixed-use development melded the restraints of a difficult site, public access issues, a demanding owner, and an exterior design theme, into a centerpiece of new investment for our downtown.

This past year, the firm was engaged in a unique neighborhood in-fill project. Their design integrated the needs of their client as well as expectations of the City Plan Commission, the Common Council, and neighboring residents. Their sensitivity and understanding of the existing older neighborhood was instrumental in getting the project approved.

I have always found the members of the firm to be accessible and willing to go out of their way to seek solutions to obstacles presented by the projects they are engaged in.

As Director of Planning and Development, I would definitely recommend Haag Müller for work on future design projects.
